

Q7~Q9

Good afternoon ladies and gentlemen.

I am very pleased to introduce Dr. Carlos Castro, director of our Central American operations and head of international sales.

As many of you may know, he is also a very entertaining speaker, famous for his sense of humor.

Many of you may not know, however, that this noble man is a prize-winning author and has written many books on economic trends, finance, and trade.

This evening, he will be speaking about international trade in Central America up until the 20th century.

Q4~Q6

Good evening.

First of all, it's good to see that almost everybody is here tonight.

It has been a busy week, but we did it, and I was happy to see all of you all working together to clean up the town after the storm.

It's at times like these that I realize how lucky I was to be elected mayor last year.

Thanks to you, the town's streets and parks are looking even better than they were before the storm.

Also, I would like to give special thanks to the students and teachers of Red Rocks High School for all the hard work they put in over the past week.

Well, I think I've said enough...let the party begin!

Q1~Q3

This is an announcement for all passengers waiting to board Sunny Airlines flight 69 to Cuba.

We regret to inform passengers that, due to bad weather conditions, tonight's flight has been cancelled.

There will be another flight at 8 am tomorrow morning, when conditions will be better.

We apologize for any inconvenience this may cause and thank you for waiting so patiently for this announcement. The airline will pay for one night's stay at the nearby Airport Hotel for passengers in need of accommodation. Please don't leave the departure lounge, as a sales representative from the airline will come to talk with you in a few moments. Thank you.

I know you are supposed to be having a few days' rest, but this is urgent- we really need your help.

It's an emergency!

Please contact me as soon as possible. Thanks!
